 Repairing "Difficult" Patient-Clinician Relationships
 Denise M. Dudzinski, PhD, MTS and Carol Alvarez, MS, RN

Conclusion

Clinicians readily accommodate patients' physical disabilities, but they might neglect to take into account patients' deficits in social and life skills or their personal styles. The super signal the need for different kinds of accommodations. Patients' personal histories may influence their expression of distress, communicated in ways that complicate their ability to receive necessary care. When a clinician encounters a patient whose behaviors are disruptive and distressing, a step back for reflection can provide a shift in perspective.

The basis of trust in the patient-clinician relationship is a fiduciary obligation to protect, respect, and heal vulnerable patients. The patient-clinician relationship is inherently unequal, and the physician maintains her knowledge and power solely to aid the patient. Consequently, clinicians always have some responsibility to repair and rebuild the relationship than patients. The strategies discussed here can help clinicians do just that.

This matter is expanded more than just a single distressed patient to provider. THIS MATTER IS ABOUT THE COLLECTIVE EROSION OF TRUST OCCURRING IN THE HIV/AIDS FIELD INDUSTRY OF TREATMENT AND SOCIAL SERVICES. WHAT IS HAPPENING ON THE FLIP END SIDE OF THIS SETUP STRUCTURE IS:

Necessity Law and Legal Definition. In the U.S. criminal law, necessity is a form of defense. Usually, defendants argue that their actions were necessary to prevent a greater evil. ... The harm the defendant wanted to avoid outweighs the danger of the prohibited conduct the person is charged with.

Note To World: I have tried my best to be a peace influence interface, and they kick and crawl, scratch and claw their way around holding their HATE before they release themselves to confess their role in the injury of the HIV infected Communities Across The United States of America to include the now ridiculous science being imposed against me to result in my status being INEVITABLE because absolutely no one on their end of actions injuring the community has the courage to stand forth and confess the conditions of hate that are decades in the making. It is March 27th 2019... when or when will the "safety" in this be put to a reconciliation process, rebuild trust, and be gone with this shit? When? >
